FIFTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY COMPANY OF PHILADELPHIA:

In submitting herewith their Fifty-ninth Annual Report, the Board of Management have little to present that is novel. The year just closed has not been with us an eventful one in any respect. In some particulars there has been progress, though of no very marked character. While its influence has not been all that it ought and perhaps might have been, still the institution has been in a quiet way doing a very important work in stimulating and shaping the intellectual life of this community.

Mortgage Debt.

During the year the remaining indebtedness against our property in the mortgage of $20,000, which was placed upon it in 1878, partly in place of the ground rent of $50,000 which was extinguished in that year, has been paid off. As it has been difficult to obtain safe and remunerative investments, a portion of the $10,000 paid in during the year for timber sold on the Williamson lands, as detailed in our last Report, has been temporarily applied to the payment of this mortgage; but with a guarantee that the interest be added to the Williamson Fund, so that it will suffer no loss.

We may now therefore congratulate ourselves on being virtually out of debt; the mortgage which was created in 1878 to trustees who are members of our Board being in reality a fund for the replacement and purchase of books, as explained in the Report for that year.

Finances.

Notwithstanding some falling off in the receipts from membership fees, the total of our ordinary receipts is nearly equal to that of the preceding year; and there have been no unusual demands upon our treasury. On account of a reduction in the working expenses of the institution, we have been able to purchase a larger number of books than in either of the two previous years.

Use of Library.

During the year the number of visitors to the rooms on business days and on Sundays has fallen off considerably, while on holidays there was an increase. In the number of volumes loaned for home use there was also a marked increase; the excess being nearly 13,000 volumes over the previous year. These facts seem to show that with the revival of business, people have had less time to spend in the library rooms, while the desire and purpose to read has not abated.

Change of Rule.

In our last Report, reference was made to a modification of the rule so as to allow the loan of two separate works on each account. This change has been found to be satisfactory and advantageous; so much so that the Board have deemed it safe and wise to take an additional step in the direction of liberality, by allowing the two books to be taken at different times, if the receipt ticket is shown, as evidence that the books are wanted for the owner of the share.

As was anticipated, the alteration of the rule so as to reckon the charge for detention of books beyond the prescribed time, and for extra books taken, by the work instead of by the volume, has resulted in a slight loss to the Library ($137.90), notwithstanding an increase in the number of volumes loaned. And yet viewing the matter in the light of the year's experience we do not regret the change.

Reservation of Books.

The provision made some months ago, and referred to in the last Report, for recording applications for books and notifying applicants when they are returned, has been taken advantage of to a considerable extent, and has been found to give very general satisfaction.

Order in the Rooms.

It has been a marked peculiarity of this Library from the first that the book-cases have been kept open and every member has had the privilege of going directly to the shelves to make his own selection of books for reading and study—an advantage which is enjoyed in no other large library in the world. The value of this privilege has been much enhanced by the recent re-arrangement of the books into smaller and more clearly defined classes, and the placing of the books in alphabetical order on the shelves. Members would derive still greater advantage from this free access to the shelves if more care were taken to replace the books that have been used in their proper position in the cases. And especially would the convenience of all frequenters of the Reading Room be served if members would take the little trouble to return the magazines to the places designated for them, so that others could readily find them.

Abuse of Books.

Another evil which we experience as one of the consequences of this direct accessibility of the books is seen in the damage done to them by rough and careless handling and by positive mutilation. The former, doubtless, results from lack of thought as to what treatment is due to books, considered as embodying the best thoughts of the choice spirits of the world, and it would seem as if a bare reference to the matter would suffice to secure for them considerate treatment.

From the positive and purposed mutilation of our books we have suffered a great deal; and the evil is one that, in our liberal plan of administration, it is next to impossible to eradicate. We deem it imperative upon us, however, to call attention to the subject with a view of fostering a public sentiment that shall avail to the abatement of the evil as far as possible.

Binding.

The constant use of a large part of our library and the fragile condition as to binding of most of the new books that are purchased, together with the steady deterioration of the older portion of the library from the dryness of the air in our highly heated rooms, necessitate a large amount of binding and repairing. The operations of our bindery continue to be measurably satisfactory, and show the wisdom of having this work done under our immediate supervision. The number of volumes which have passed through the hands of our binder during the year is 9,413, as against 7,581 in the year 1880; and the cost of the work was $2818.30. In addition to the repairing done in the bindery, a large number of volumes have received slight repairs in the repair room of the library by our own assistants.

Insurance.

The property of the Company is well protected by insurance in companies of established reputation. The amount now carried on the building is $75,000, in ten companies; and on the books, furniture and fixtures, $80,000, in twenty-three companies.

Lectures.

In the early years of our institution it was the practice to maintain courses of lectures; and this was quite germane to the objects for which the Library was established. It is believed this mode of instruction and entertainment under proper adaptations to the altered conditions of society may be advantageously revived and made a permanent feature of our association.

Learning that the distinguished English historian, Edward A. Freeman, LL.D., D.C.L., was coming to this country to make a personal examination and study of our civil and political institutions, and to deliver lectures before the Lowell Institute in Boston, and at different Universities, we opened correspondence with him; and he has been engaged to give a course of six lectures at Association Hall, on the Practical Bearings of General European History. The first lecture will be given on Tuesday evening, February 14th, and the others on the succeeding Friday and Tuesday evenings. These lectures, which are the fruit of mature study, have been received with great favor where they have been heard, and we feel safe in promising a rich treat to those who may avail of the opportunity of hearing them.

We earnestly hope that our members generally will show their interest in this measure by procuring tickets at once, and use their influence to induce others to purchase them.

Relations to the Public.

Within a few years the attention of the American people has been directed to public libraries as it never had been before; and in very many towns and cities such libraries have been established by private enterprise and under provisions of State law. With this awakened interest there has come a more correct understanding of the place which libraries hold in our system of education. And so it is made apparent that the members of our various library associations have other relations to them than that of recipients of benefit—relations of duty towards them, that are shared by the whole community in which the library is placed. The public library is an educational force in society, exerting its powerful influence, consciously or unconsciously to them, upon all the citizens. For this reason it is the concern of the whole public that the library be so constituted and so administered that this influence going forth from it be of a kind to contribute in the highest degree to the development and culture of what is noblest and best in man.

This library has made great progress within a few years, and it has a strong hold upon the public esteem. But it has by no means attained to the proportions required in a library for such a city as ours. It is for those who are now specially and formally interested in it, and for the general public as well, to say whether it shall continue in its present circumscribed sphere of influence, or whether it shall be lifted up into its due prominence in our community, and furnished with means to make it such a library as Philadelphia needs and will appreciate.
